Recommended vaccines for children from birth through 6 years old

Ask your health care provider about combination vaccines to reduce the number of pokes in a visit.

*The number of doses in the series will depend on the vaccine product that your health care provider carries.

Everyone age 6 months and older is recommended to get flu vaccine each year.

Children 6 months through 8 years old may need 2 doses of vaccine, given 4 weeks apart. Ask your health care provider about your child’s vaccine needs.
