

CME Credits Available for 2008 AIM Kit!

Physicians can apply for Category II Continuing Medical Education credit for reading the AIM Provider Tool Kit through the American Medical Association's Physician's Recognition Award. Category II activities, which are not designated by an accredited provider, represent physician-directed learning. Generally self-documented, these activities can include peer consultation, reading relevant journal articles or medical information, or informal teaching. Credit claimed should be commensurate with the actual time spent on the activity.

For more information or to download the Physician's Recognition Award application, please visit the American Medical Association's website at www.ama-assn.org.
